

Imagine that you adopt this rule: Buy business class tickets on flights longer than four hours. Notice your reaction and write out your thoughts. Can you spot any Money Beliefs in your answer?

Common responses:

- » "What a waste of money. I would never do that."
- » "I would love to ... someday."
- » "I never thought about that."

Recall the last time you spent $1,000 on something you enjoyed. Turn it into your own Money Rule. What would it look and feel like if this was something you did consistently and happily?
