

you want, and as long as your wants are realistic, you should be willing to wait for the right house to come along.