

about the possibility of reducing the support they provide our generation once we reach retirement age.

Figure 1.4: proportion of age groups in the population in 1979 vs. projected numbers in 2060

All the more reason to take responsibility for our own retirement planning and invest, and potentially reach those goals faster. Government schemes are helpful, but they often do not allow for withdrawals without reason until retirement age, and they often aren't large enough lump sums to live off entirely either. We are much better off if we have the means to stand on our own feet.

Get financial freedom and security

Money is a huge stressor in the lives of women — in fact, a 2019 survey by Salary Finance showed millennial women were more stressed about money than millennial men, and were more likely to suffer from panic attacks over