

- To recover from natural and man-made hazards–Home insurance covers your house against damages done due to natural hazards such as earthquakes, floods, lightning etc., or by human acts such as vandalism/ thefts. It also equips you financially to recover from the loss and rebuild your home.
- Covers temporary living expenses–The Home insurance company will pay your expenses if you need to rent another apartment or move into a hotel temporarily, until your home is repaired/ rebuilt.
- Make up for the loss/damage to your assets and personal belongings–This covers not just the structure of your home but also your personal belongings including jewellery, clothing, appliances, furniture and much more.
- Protect against liability–Liability coverage in such policies provides coverage for personal injuries or property damage to others for which you or members of your family living with you may be legally responsible. For instance, your dog bites a neighbor or your tree falls on a neighbor's fence, if you have liability coverage then your insurer will pay for the expenses, thus protecting you from any possible legal problems.
- To avail house loan from banks – Many banks lend out a home loan on a pre-condition that the loan will only be approved if your home is insured. Home insurance, in fact, is a preliminary requirement to be eligible for a home loan in many cases.

There are enough reasons to go and insure your home. You are buying peace of mind when you cover such risks in life. A peaceful mind can focus better on building wealth and creating income generating assets.
