

Whatever be your age group, active management and balancing of your portfolio asset allocation is critical for you to be able to sustain your financial freedom through till the end of your life. As informed earlier, the above portfolio asset allocations are typical representations for people with moderate risk taking ability. For freedom seekers with a different risk taking ability, portfolio allocation should obviously be altered accordingly.