

- Track your expenses on a daily basis. Scientific studies have proven that a daily track of expenses can reduce your expenses by as much as 15%.
- If for any reason, you cannot track them daily, track them at the earliest possible interval. The longer the interval, higher are the chances that you will miss out tracking some of the expenses.
- Involve your family in this activity. I have realised that giving the ownership of this activity to your children helps you a lot.
- You must keep tracking your expenses for the rest of your life. Expense Tracking should be a habit, as is bathing or brushing your teeth. You should feel something missing if you have not tracked your expenses on a specific day. We may start with inconsistencies but we must keep improving. You will continue to get surprised as you keep doing it every day every month every year.
