Please keep a note of the following points while making a list of your liabilities:

- Any liabilities like pending loan EMIs, life insurance premiums are all counted under Step 1 (Expenses) unless the remaining tenure for these EMIs or premiums is short term (less than equal to 5 years). In such cases of short term time limited expenses, you should include them under 'Liabilities' and NOT under Step 1(Expenses).
- Take care that your outgo should appear ONLY under ONE of the heads – either under Step 1/Expenses or under Step 2/Liabilities, depending upon whether it is a long term ongoing expense or a short term expense respectively. In no case, should your money outgo appear under both heads.
- As an example, if you have a pending loan EMI of ₹10,000/- per month and the remaining loan tenure is 3 years, then this EMI will NOT be counted in Step 1/Expenses, rather a total liability of ₹3.6 Lacs ($₹10,000/- \times 12 \times 3$) will be added in Step 2/Liabilities.
