

all carry. Investors and policymakers should be skeptical about their pronouncements, especially during crises.

If nobody knows anything about the future of economic data, how well do the experts do when it comes to forecasting the future of stock market prices?

Take a wild guess ...

35 Steven Malanga, “The Retirement Crisis That Wasn’t,” City Journal (January 10, 2024).

36 Chloe Berger, “Older boomers won the pandemic after becoming a whopping $14 trillion richer, Fed data reveals—and Gen X is losing the race,” Fortune (December 22, 2023).

37 Ben Carlson, “The Luckiest Generation,” A Wealth of Common Sense (August 25, 2023). Ben Carlson is director of Institutional Asset Management at Ritholtz Wealth Management (RWM).

38 Barry Ritholtz, “Who Is to Blame for Inflation, 1-15,” The Big Picture (June 28, 2022).

39 Philip Aldrick, “Larry Summers Says US Needs 5% Jobless Rate for Five Years to Ease Inflation,” Bloomberg (June 20, 2022).

40 Paul Graham, “How to Be an Expert in a Changing World,” paulgraham.com (December 2014).