

premium had gone up $184 a month, or $2,208 a year! Through no fault of my own, my insurance costs had doubled.

Fortunately, I called another insurance provider and found a more reasonable rate. There are two lessons to take away from this story. First, be careful and responsible when you are driving. My insurance premium increased drastically even though I did not cause the accident, so imagine how expensive it would have been if I had been found completely liable. Second, make sure you have insurance. If I did not have insurance, I would have had to pay for all of the repairs myself, and probably would have had to pay a fine if the police got involved.
