

KEY TAKEAWAYS: BUDGETING

- You need a budget. Don't just assume you know how much money you are spending on things. You need to have a detailed budget to track every dollar you make and spend.
- Housing, transportation, and food are the three biggest killers to a budget. Make sure you are not overspending in these categories. Because these items are often so expensive, one misstep in these categories can throw your whole budget off.
- There are plenty of budgets and budget apps out there. Find the one that works for you.
- Do not just spend more money as your income goes up. As you make more money make sure you put it towards your future self: saving for a home, your retirement, paying off debt, etc.
- Make sure you have an emergency fund. You never know when you are going to need money for an unexpected expense.
- The easiest way to improve your budget is with more money. Do whatever you can to earn extra income.
