

My old routine, which cost ten times what I spend now

- Clinique Take the Day Off Balm – $55
- Clinique Rinse-off Foaming Cleanser – $38
- Napoleon Perdis Auto Pilot Radiance-boosting Mask – $85
- Clinique Turnaround Concentrate Serum – $64
- Olay Regenerist Micro-sculpting Serum – $53
- Clinique Dramatically Different Moisturising Lotion+ – $49
- Clinique Youth Surge Age-decelerating Night Moisturiser – $100

Total: $444 for a six-month supply

Beauty tips for committed savers

Years in make-up chairs as a television presenter, and behind the scenes at fashion shoots, put me in touch with some of Australia's best make-up artists and hair-stylists. I ask two of the best for their penny-pinching tips for looking your best while spending a pittance.

Sue Marshall's best beauty buys

Sue Marshall is one of Australia's leading make-up artists, now based in the US. Some of her clients include the Australian Ballet, L'Oréal, Myer, David Jones and Opera Australia. Marshall's marvellous way with a make-up brush has her requested by celebrities including actresses Miranda Otto, Margot Robbie and Jessica Marais, and models Jessica Hart, Abbey Lee Kershaw, Rachel Hunter, Jennifer Hawkins and Tara Moss.

suemarshall.com

Instagram: suemarshall

Here are Sue's best buys:

- Coconut oil

Marshall says this all-rounder, costing about $5 a jar, is a great body