

Stamp duty – A tax imposed by state governments on the sale of property, which is calculated as a percentage of the property's value (as per what is in the sale contract).

Statement of adjustments – Paperwork that explains the division of certain costs between the vendor and the buyer, such as rates, or rent if the property is leased by tenants. After settlement, these costs transfer to the buyer.

Strata plan – A registered plan determining the boundaries of lots, such as apartments and units.

Strata title – Ownership of property that is within a strata plan. Each proprietor owns parts of a building and has joint rights with others in the building to use common areas.

Subdivision – When a parcel of land is carved into separate allotments, each with its own title.

Subject to finance – A clause in the contract of sale that states the buyer has to obtain finance for the loan by a certain date.

Title or title deeds – Documents that are evidence of the property's ownership.

Valuer – A registered or licensed expert in valuing property.

Vendor – The person selling the home, represented by a real estate agent.

Zoning – A local planning tool used to control how land is developed and used, which can be for residential or business purposes.

Source: Real Estate Institute of Australia, roselaw.com.au/