

Lovely low-cost mussels

Olive oil

1 brown onion, chopped finely

1 clove garlic, crushed

Pinch of dried Italian herb mix

650 g mussels, fresh (scrubbed or debearded) or frozen (defrosted)

1 cup (250 ml) white wine (cask is fine)

1 x 170 g can tomato paste

Handful of fresh parsley

Pinch of chilli

Crusty bread

Heat olive oil in a saucepan over a medium heat. Fry onion and garlic with dried herbs until onion is translucent. Add mussels to pan with white wine; stir and simmer with the lid on for 2 minutes. Uncover, and add tomato paste and stir; add parsley and stir again. Allow to simmer for another 2 minutes with lid on. The dish is ready when all the mussels have opened – discard any that do not open. Serve with chilli, if you wish, and crusty bread.
